Dear Dr. Lederberg:

I am writing to request your help in identifying potential authors of important topics suitable for treatment as articles in Science. We are particularly interested in articles having interdisciplinary significance and are willing to consider material of both foreign and domestic origin.

Many of our authors have told us of the excellent response their articles have drawn. Our circulation, which is growing, is now above 102,000, and includes about half of this nation's leading scientists. In addition there are many subscribers abroad.

Sincerely,

Philip H. Abelson
